In 1788 there were only three dwelling houses in the village on the south side of the river. One of these was a house located in the junction of Elm and Union Streets. This was occupied by Augustus Blanchard who may have been its builder. He died in 1809. The next owner was Solomon Livermore who came to Milford in 1809. He lived in the old house until he built the present Community House in 1842. Then different tenants occupied it until sometime in the 1850s when it was moved to the corner of Orange and Union Streets (old #46) and made into a two story house. A picture of this first house hangs in the Community House.

UNION STREET

In 1797 Isaac Moore and his wife Martha came to Milford.

He was a farmer and a cooper. His house and barn were built on the site of the present (old) #70 Union. His farm took in land that is now George, Ford, Beech, Dean, Smith and upper Oak Street. When he died in 1846, he was the oldest man in Milford. His son Dean probably was the one who built the house and barn at (old #77).

"The old house was moved to the village" (Wish I knew where). Dean Moore died in 1881 and his farm was sold at auction - " a two story house nearly new and farm land for $4500, 16A lot of timber land was sold to Daniel Buttrick. (I think that some of it was on the corner of Osggod Road and West street, and some on the east side of upper Union). It was purchased by Nathaniel Hutchinson, but he in turn must have sold to George Hartshorn, as in Sept 1882 George sold 19 lots of the old Dean Moore farm. These must have been on upper Oak Street and on the east side of Union Street. In 1890 S.G. Hartshorn held an auction on his father's farm which had been divided into house lots. A map or plan of these house lots is given in the Farmers Cabinet of (Sept or Oct?) 1890.

Mr. Samuel Lovejoy's son Henry told me that his father mowed all of his father's farm and Dean Moore's farm with a one horse mowing machine. Mr. Edwin Sargent told me that he used to visit with Dean Moore when his barn was at (old #70).

So after 1890 most of the houses between Osgood Road and George and upper Oak were built. The land now Park and Smith was the pasture land of the farm, and at the end of Oak was a beautiful woods, used for picnics by the towns people (ran through Dean)
